

I can think of nothing scarier than having one source of information in our society. Passing this legislation will only restrict the free flow of ideas, a principle on which this country was founded.